Architecture & Engineering

Lippes Mathias' attorneys have extensive experience representing architecture and engineering (A&E) firms of all sizes across the full spectrum of the design industry. Our attorneys understand the unique legal and business challenges facing A&E firms and provide tailored, practical counsel to help navigate a complex and evolving landscape.

We represent a wide range of design professionals, including architecture, engineering, interior design, landscape architecture, and construction management firms.

Our deep industry knowledge allows us to advise on day-to-day operational matters as well as strategic growth opportunities.

Our legal counsel to A&E firms includes:

- General corporate law and entity structuring
- Mergers and acquisitions
- State-by-state regulatory compliance
- Corporate governance and internal policy development
- Employment law and human resources counseling
- Employee benefits and executive compensation
- Immigration for design and technical professionals
- Banking and financial transactions
- Intellectual property protection (copyright, trademark, licensing)
- Professional licensing and disciplinary proceedings
- Mechanic's liens

At Lippes Mathias, we understand that no two design firms are alike. We take the time to learn each client's goals, culture, and business philosophy—tailoring our legal solutions to align with their vision and operations.

Our attorneys are engaged in the A&E community, regularly participating in industry organizations, speaking at conferences, and contributing to leading publications to stay ahead of emerging trends and legal developments affecting design professionals.
