Additionally, outside of the context of investigations, because of our unique experience, long-standing relationships, and deep knowledge of State Attorneys General priorities, we can assist our clients in engaging with State Attorneys General to establish public private partnerships where possible. Our attorneys have developed a strong, national network of contacts who can be engaged when needed to help advance a client's legitimate business-directed mission.

Our attorneys regularly assist international clients, particularly companies headquartered in Israel, with U.S. legal and regulatory matters. In 2018, Lippes Mathias formally aligned with an Israeli law firm, Kan-Tor & Acco, to assist Israeli companies and individuals with U.S. civil matters, government investigations, SEC matters, and immigration matters.

Team Leaders, Dennis C. Vacco and Michael G. Rossetti, travel several times a year to Israel to assist clients, participate in speaking engagements, and provide media outlets with U.S. insights.

We understand the distractions and strain that a governmental investigation or enforcement action can cause and our Team stands ready to help your company navigate through the difficult and unfamiliar process. We have a strong track record of resolving governmental investigations on favorable terms, but are fully prepared to fight when necessary and in our client's best interest. We stand with our clients every step of the way.
