

Lobbying & Public Policy

Lippes Mathias' Lobbying & Public Policy Practice Team, in Albany and Washington, represents clients in a wide range of matters before various New York State and federal government bodies and agencies. The team, made up of attorneys and advisors with deep government and public service experience, regularly joins forces to coordinate advocacy and strategic policy solutions on behalf of clients across both New York State and the nation. By leveraging its extensive network of relationships and business partners, coupled with its roster of multi-disciplinary attorneys, Lippes Mathias' Lobbying & Public Policy Practice Team effectively advances its clients' issues and agenda, regardless of the legislative and regulatory environments that may exist at the time.

Our comprehensive approach begins with a thorough evaluation of your policy, business, or legal needs and extends to developing tailored strategies that include identifying critical decision-makers and conducting necessary outreach at all government levels.

New York State Lobbying Practice

Led by Partner and former Erie County District Attorney John Flynn and in alliance with Masiello Martucci Hughes, our New York State team represents clients before state government agencies, the legislature, public authorities, and regulatory bodies, securing financial support, obtaining economic benefits, and negotiating or litigating disputes. The team has years of experience addressing regulatory issues and advising on compliance with lobbying laws, campaign finance regulations, procurement contracts, and interactions with municipal and state authorities.
