

Lippes Mathias LLP Successfully Represents Independent Review Committee in Constitutional Challenge

July 26, 2024 | PRESS RELEASES

Lippes Mathias LLP is pleased to share that partners Karl J. Sleight and Joan P. Sullivan, both members of the firm's government & corporate investigations practice team, successfully represented the Independent Review Committee (IRC) comprised of all the deans of New York's accredited law schools, in Lavine v. Hochul. et. al., a significant legal challenge involving a constitutional dispute over the delegation of nomination approval powers under the amended New York State Executive Law § 94. Lippes Mathias' team effectively demonstrated that the plaintiff lacked standing, leading to the dismissal of the complaint, with the Fourth Department holding that the New York State Governor Kathy Hochul and the IRC properly raised the standing issue. The New York State Appellate Division modified the lower court decision by further holding that it should not have reached the underlying merits of the case. This decision reaffirms the IRC's authority to vet nominations in accordance with the statute. The brief filed at the Appellate Division was written by Sullivan and argued by Sleight.
