

The safety of our employees and clients is our most important priority. Lippes Mathias is committed to providing our clients with the same best-in-class legal service during this unprecedented time. COVID-19 makes meeting with our clients in person to discuss, review, and sign documents most challenging. We have made enhancements to ensure clients can get the estate plan documents they need to be executed even during this time.

The Florida Probate and Trust Codes require wills and trusts to be executed in the presence of two witnesses and a notary. To ensure the safety of our clients, attorneys, and staff, we have implemented methods of preparing and signing documents without the need for in-person meetings.

Once you retain Lippes Mathias Wexler Friedman LLP, your attorney will contact you via videoconference, telephone, or email. After you and your attorney have thoroughly discussed your wishes, your attorney will prepare your estate plan and send the documents electronically to you for review. Afterward, you and your attorney can discuss any revisions or comments by telephone, videoconference, or email communication.

Florida law requires certain estate planning documents to be executed in the presence of two witnesses and others in the presence of a notary. To ensure the safety of our clients, attorneys, and staff, we have implemented methods of preparing and signing documents without the need for in-person meetings with our firm.

Our attorneys will provide you with detailed instructions on how to find two witnesses easily. If you cannot locate witnesses, we will assist you with getting witnesses. If necessary, we will also help you schedule a mobile notary to come to your location for the signing ceremony.

Our firm uses Zoom video conferencing software that is compatible with most smartphones, tablets, and computers, and our attorneys will guide you through the signing process to make sure it is convenient for you.
