Ethan received his Associate of Science in Business Administration from Genesee Community College, and his Bachelor of Science in Business Administration at SUNY Geneseo, an AACSB accredited School of Business. Ethan's academic focus in areas including accounting, economics, finance and business law were first put to use as an owner/operator of various blue-collar businesses, but his interest in the nuances of the ever-evolving tax laws led him to pursue a career assisting individual and corporate taxpayers.

Ethan is an Enrolled Agent, enrolled to represent taxpayers before the Internal Revenue Service. His diverse background adds a unique and welcomed perspective to our audit defense and collection teams, where he defends clients facing New York State or federal civil audits, and assists clients in resolving collection issues.
